CONGENITAL HEART DEFECTS (CHD) AWARENESS WEEK – February 7-14

CHDs are the most common birth defect, affecting approximately 1 in every 100 babies (about 1 percent or 40,000 babies) every year in the United States. CHDs are present at birth and can affect the structure of the baby's heart and the way it works. About 1 in every 4 babies born with a heart defect has a critical congenital heart defect (CCHD). Babies with CCHD are at risk for serious health problems or death without surgery or other procedures within their first year of life. In Missouri, all babies are required to be screened for CCHD soon after birth. Screening is painless, non-invasive, and can help detect CCHDs early, allowing for treatment that can prevent disability and death early in life. For more information about CCHD screening in Missouri, visit www.health.mo.gov/cchd.

NATIONAL SURVEY ON DRUG USE AND HEALTH (NSDUH) BEING CONDUCTED IN MISSOURI

The National Survey on Drug Use and Health sponsored by Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) will be conducted in Missouri in 2015 by RTI, the contractor. Individuals may be contacting your agency regarding the legitimacy of the survey and SAMHSA seeks your help in disseminating this information to your appropriate staff. The interviewer will ask an occupant 18 or older to take part in a brief screening interview to determine if someone in that household 12 years of age or older is eligible for voluntary participation in the study (approximately 72,500 individuals will be asked to participate nationwide). The NSDUH interview takes about one-hour and will be conducted in the privacy of the participant's home using a computerized questionnaire. Everyone who completes the entire interview will be given $30.00 in cash in appreciation for their participation. INSTITUTE OF MEDICINES (IOM) PAPER, NEW STUDY AIM TO BRING COMMUNITY HEALTH WORKERS (CHWs) INTO MAINSTREAM OF HEALTH CARE

A health innovation is showing tremendous gains in improving health, especially among vulnerable populations. It has produced a return on investment of 4:1 when applied to children with asthma and a return on investment of 3:1 for Medicaid enrollees with unmet long-term care needs. Among participating patients with HIV, 60 percent achieve undetectable viral loads. Yet it isn't widely replicated, and it isn't supported by most health care financing mechanisms. In fact, some organizations that successfully deploy the innovation – and show better health outcomes – actually lose money. The innovation is CHWs, and this week the Public Health Institute (PHI) releases a report, discussion paper, and short video that make the case for how and why we should bring CHWs into the mainstream of health care delivery in California and beyond.

- In Community Health Workers in California: Sharpening Our Focus on Strategies to Expand, PHI's California Health Workforce Alliance (CHWA), with support from the Blue Shield of California Foundation, sets forth recommendations to overcome barriers to integrate CHWs into team-based primary care in California's safety net institutions
- PHI CEO Mary A. Pittman, DrPH, draws heavily on the CHWA report to explain why advancing the role of CHWs should be a key national population health strategy in her discussion paper for the IOM Roundtable on Population Health Improvement
- CHWA, in partnership with PHI's CA4Health program, released a short video on CHWs, reinforcing many of the key points in both papers
